A high-contrast, black and white photograph capturing a large, dense crowd of people, likely students, gathered in front of the Stoneham Public Library. The crowd is composed of individuals of various ages, many of whom are looking towards the camera. The library building, a long, single-story structure with multiple windows, forms the background. The ground in the foreground is covered with a thick layer of what appears to be confetti or small, light-colored objects, suggesting a festive or celebratory event. The image has a grainy, high-contrast quality, with deep blacks and bright whites, giving it a vintage or archival feel.

One Sunday in October a swarm of Stoneham Seniors invaded the apple groves in Hampton Falls, New Hampshire. Red juices, golden delicious, and granny smiths filled their shopping bags and stomachs as the students picked and climbed from tree to tree.

After apple picking, the seniors headed for Hampton Beach, for a McDonalds lunch and a photo session by the ocean. When they headed home, fruit-filled, cold, sandy and tired, they knew the day was destined to be "look material!"

LOOK

To the class of 1956, the first class to graduate from the new Stoneham High School, may this edition of "The Torch" serve as a reminder of the many privileges and advantages which we were fortunate to enjoy.

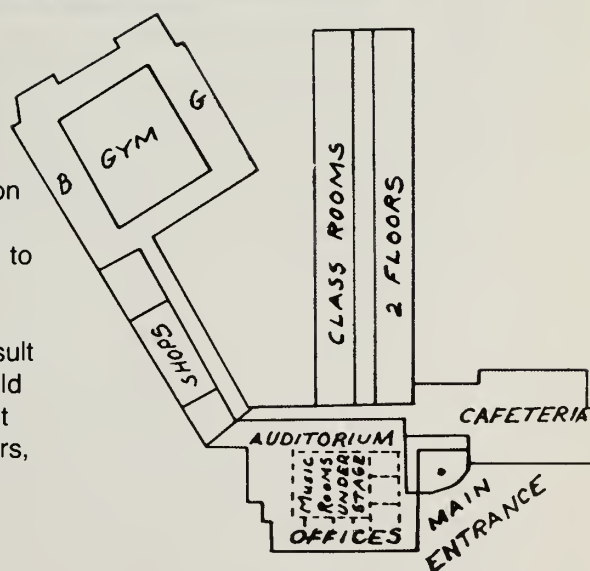

Stoneham High has indeed taken on a "new look," the result of years of hard work and planning by its townspeople. Let us hope that each of us has gained from its teachers, its modern facilities, and its school activities, the inspiration and the knowledge to cope with the problems of the future, and may the happy memories recorded here be cherished forever.

To the class of 1981, the last class to graduate from the old Stoneham High School, may this edition of "Omega" serve as a reminder of the many privileges and advantages which we were fortunate to enjoy as well as the little inconveniences we have suffered.

Stoneham High will take on a "new look," the result of years of hard work and planning. Even so, this old school has served us well for the past 25 years. Let us hope that each of us has gained from its teachers, its sports program, and its school activities, the knowledge to cope with the problems of the future, and may the happy memories recorded here be cherished forever.

PROCRASTINATION . . .

Clockwise from top right: 3 stages of procrastination: going, going, gone! Marybeth "far from the maddening crowd." "A practical application of Statistics and Probability." The evils of last minute cramming. "Would you believe I've read this paragraph six times?"

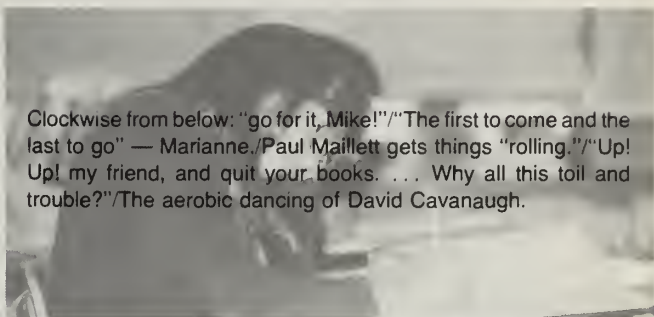

IS THE THIEF OF TIME.

DETERMINATION

Clockwise from below: "go for it, Mike!"/"The first to come and the last to go" — Marianne./Paul Maillett gets things "rolling."/"Up! Up! my friend, and quit your books. . . . Why all this toil and trouble?"/The aerobic dancing of David Cavanaugh.

"Whip It" and "Rock Lobster" were the theme songs for the day When punk rock hit Stoneham High in a controversial way The green-haired guys wore hospital pants along with devo glasses So to their female punkies they could make their new-wave pants. The chicks replied in a fashionable in pants like second skins On platform shoes with mini- they flashed their sexy shins. On that day, we set a trend, made a color section and more. By buying clothes, we gave great business to the Salvation Army Store.

Clockwise from top: Tommy Duff smiles through a physical barrier — and "gets by with a little help from his friends."/ The Infamous Maybo breaks loose from fashion and declares her individuality!/ Facing the dilemma of the future, Janet O'Brien takes a look at colleges./ Senior guys "grin and bear it" through the ordeal of school lunch./ How does Lori Gustafson spell obstacle? P-H-Y-S-I-C-S!

WE ARE OMEGA 1981!

Why Omega? Omega, the last letter of the Greek alphabet, is the last of a series. Our class, the class of 1981, is the last class to end its high school years in this building.

Is the end of school the final end? Woody Allen puts it cleverly in his "speech to the graduates:" "More than any other time in history, mankind faces a crossroads. One path leads to despair and utter hopelessness. The other to total extinction. Let us pray we have the wisdom to choose correctly." When Robert Frost was faced with a crossroads, he wrote, "Two roads diverged in a wood, and I — I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference."

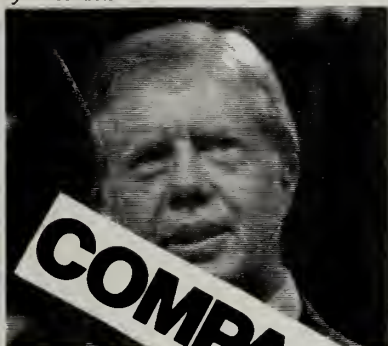

These statements imply that after we finish school we begin again. So Omega, an end, leads to Alpha, a beginning.

ELECTION 1980

On November 4, 1980 millions of Americans went to the polls to choose the next President of the United States. Campaigning had begun almost two years before for tens of candidates, including Massachusetts Senator Edward M. Kennedy who unsuccessfully made a bid for the Democratic nomination.

The 1980 election was unique in several aspects. Unhappy with the nominations of the Republican and Democratic parties, Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter respectively, John Anderson challenged the two party system and ran as an independent third party candidate. November fourth also marked one year of captivity for the American hostages in Iran. For most of the year Carter did not leave the White House to campaign because of the Iranian Crises. The "Rose Garden" policy, the economy crippled with annual inflation of thirteen percent and seven percent unemployment, and the failure to free the hostages, cost Carter the election. Ronald Reagan won with a landslide as conservative fervor swept the nation. Even liberal Massachusetts voted Reagan. Right wing organizations such as Moral Majority Inc. and the lack of organized liberal platforms resulted in many liberal Senators losing their seats and allowed the Republicans to gain control of the Senate. The country wanted changes and with the results of the 1980 elections it certainly got them.

On the state level, the source of heated debate was question 2 on the ballot, Proposition 2½. In a quest to eliminate waste in the town budget and to relieve the property owner of an unfair tax burden, Commonwealth citizens proposed this plan that would result in lower property and excise taxes. Unfortunately the enactment of this legislation would result in massive budget cuts, including education, and police and fire protection. Many of Stoneham High's finest teachers will lose their jobs. Despite these drawbacks the voters demanded tax relief and passed 2½ by a better than 2 to 1 margin.

FACULTY ACCADEMIC ULTIMATE TMICS

Stoneham High School has been fortunate to have had Mr. Chester Jordan, the present chairman of the math department, as a faculty member ever since this building opened in 1954. He has seen many changes from 1955, when the first class graduated, to 1981 when our class, the last class in this building, graduates. The dress of the students, for example, has changed considerably. Mr. Jordan remembers a time when boys were required to wear suitcoats and ties, while the girls' skirts had to be long enough so that when they knelt the hemline brushed the floor. Although the dress code is not nearly so strict today, Mr. Jordan agrees that the "leather jacket and mini-skirt era" has given way to a somewhat neater, if still informal, style of dress.

The teaching of math, however, is one thing that hasn't changed too much since the fifties. "Maybe we can't cover as much material as we used to though," says Mr. Jordan. He thinks that perhaps increased participation in extracurricular activities and the growing number of students who hold part-time jobs have contributed to the slower pace. Mr. Jordan does not see the introduction of calculators into the classroom, however, as an impediment to learning. "If they can't do it in their heads, they can't do it on the calculators" he contends.

"Stoneham is lucky" says Mr. Jordan, "because violence and vandalism have not become as serious a problem here as they have in some places." And despite the complaints of many adults concerning the lack of respect that teenagers show to the elders, Mr. Jordan does not consider disrespect to be a problem. "The respect is still there, the kids just don't show it as much," he says.

Obviously, SHS is fortunate to have had a teacher for so many years with such a sense of humor and positive attitudes as Mr. Jordan.

To Look At Anything . . .

To look at anything,
If you would know that thing,
You must look at it long: . . .

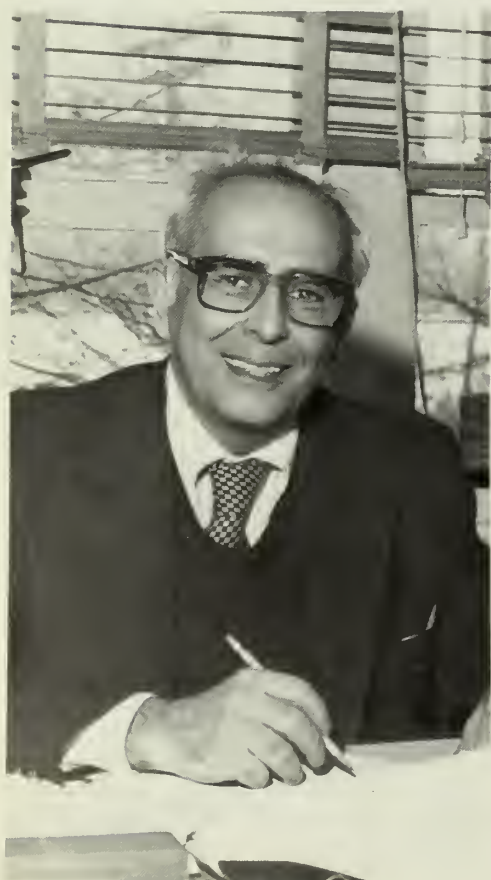

You must enter in
To the small silences between
The leaves,
You must take your time
And touch the very peace
They issue from.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

As advances are made in media and technology, international communication becomes increasingly important. A survey of nationwide colleges conducted by Mrs. L'Heureux and the foreign language department shows that many "institutions of higher learning" are stressing the importance of foreign language education and are raising language requirements.

The Foreign Language Department of Stoneham High School does an exceptional job of preparing students to meet these requirements as well as broadening student's perspectives of the world around them.

Social Studies

The Social Studies Department has been successful in developing stimulating courses and extra-curricular activities. Mr. Campagna and his all-male staff have offered such courses as China in the 20th Century, Psychology, Economics, Sociology, Comparative Government, and International Relations, to make students politically, historically, and socially aware.

Through the Social Studies Department, students with an interest in politics can participate in such extra-curricular activities as Project Close-Up, Harvard Model United Nations, and Student Government Day.

Library Aides volunteer their services in the Library to help with a multitude of tasks: checking books in and out, shelving returned books, writing notices for over-due material, clipping articles from the newspaper for a scrapbook of Stoneham High School publicity, and arranging special displays. The diligent work of these Library Aides makes possible the smooth daily operation of library service to the student body and to teachers.

Mathematics

Arithmetic is where the answer is right and everything is nice and you can look out of the window and see the blue sky — or the answer is wrong and you have to start all over and try again and see how it comes out this time . . .

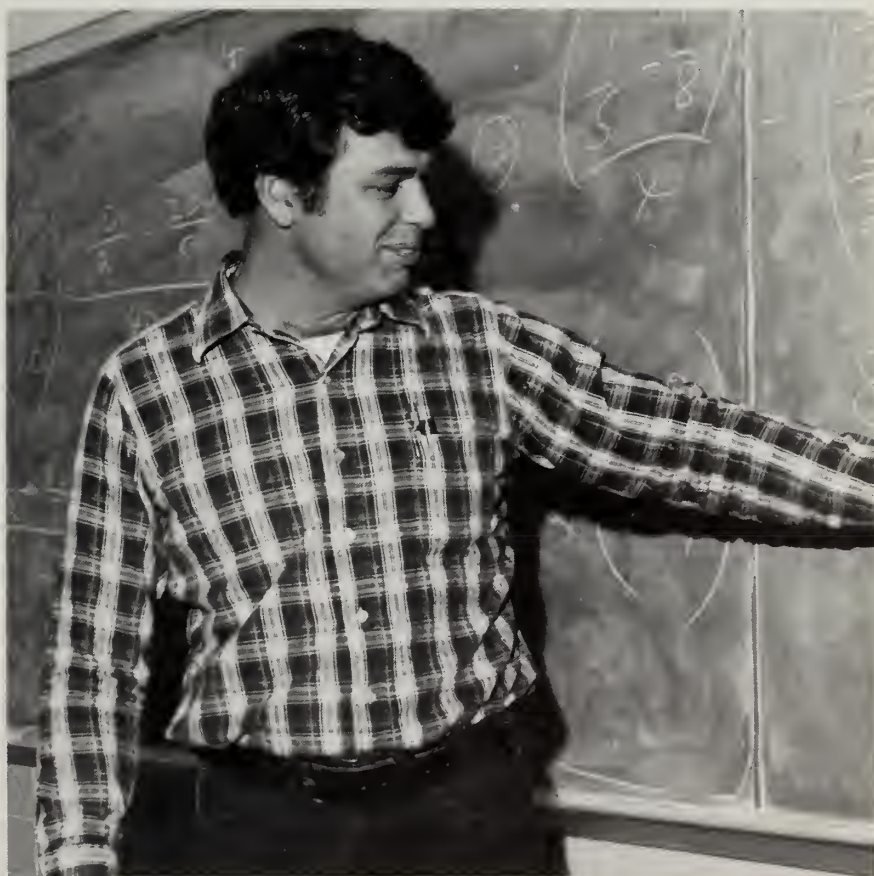

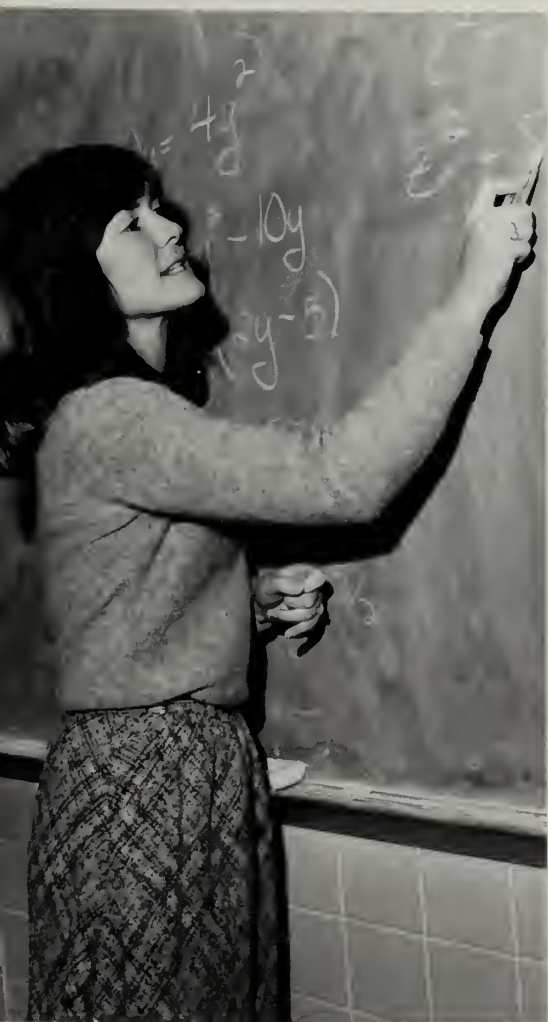

If you take a number and double it and double it again and then double it a few more times, the number gets bigger and bigger and goes higher and higher and only arithmetic can tell you what the number is when you decide to quit doubling.

WINTER

The 1981 Carnival Ball, Winter Wonderland, will long be remembered by both spectators and participants as one of the most entertaining and extravagant productions ever staged by Stoneham High School.

King Kevin Maguire and Queen Amy Boris presided over the evening's entertainment, enthroned in a court of icy splendor and surrounded by a bevy of beautiful attendants, which included Jane O'Neil, Diane Tower, Lisa Muolo,

WONDERLAND

Pam Carlson, Karen Hill, Margaret Carr, Marybeth Skerry, Janet O'Brien, Lisa Torode, and Elaine Doherty.

Richard Saitz and Michelle Fiorillo performed their duties as Master and Mistress of Ceremonies with wit and charm, and after they had welcomed the audience and introduced the royal court, the lights dimmed, the curtains parted, and the evening's entertainment began.

Players that strut and fret . . .

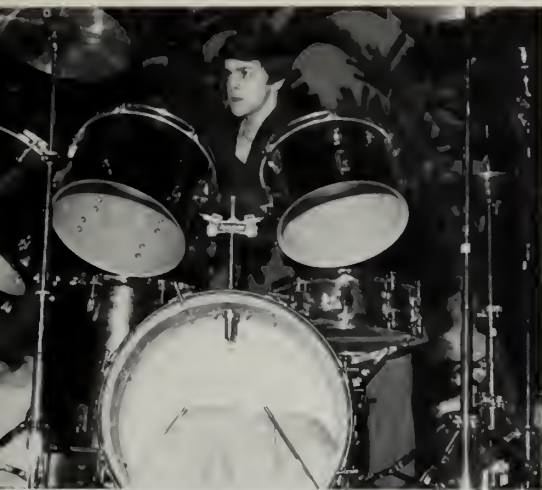

Their hour upon the stage . . .

Opposite page clockwise from top: Tom Cikatelli on guitar and lead singer Tom Doyle perform their dedication to the Carnival Queen, "Amy." John Thayer plays some "Jazzy" tunes in his Jasmine solo. Lucille Scimone, aspiring pianist, on her way to Carnegie Hall, performs "Ecossaises." Junior Elena Reis sings her own rendition of the love song "Always and Forever." Carnival Ball favorite Jeannie Hartnett looks for "home" in her enchanting routine. Two more Jasmine members having fun with "fun and games." Scott Arsenault on trumpet and Dave Marrano on bass. This page clockwise from top: Lisa, Marianne, Sharlene, Felicia, Michele and Beth brandish sabres, rifles, and flags proving that they are truly "Broadway Bound." Beth Cataldo puts her St. Pat's experience to the test in the DRILL ROUTINE. Faithful flutists for nine years, Cathy Haley and Kathy Crosdale raise the spirits of winter in a flute duet. Thanks to Earl Christie behind the scenes — the Carnival Ball lighting was impressive. Lovely Kelli Young begins her climb to the top with her solo "We've Only Just Begun." Michele Mangano announces that it's "Winter Time Once Again . . ."

And then are heard no more.

Opposite page clockwise: The Carnival Chorus. Beginning a new tradition, Amy and Kevin waltz. Eddie Coutu and Jeannie Hartnett choreographed and lead danced to "One." The 1981 Chorus Line awaits their cue to dazzle the audience. Our magical soprano, Sue Zizza, ponders the question of Lois Lane "Can You Read My Mind?" Another view of the Carnival Chorus Dennis Walter — director of the Jazz Ensemble. This page clockwise: Mike McEachern from "Fury." Country girl Linda Carroll and "Southbound" perform "Tuesday's Gone." Mike McManus and Tommy Duff were joined by Rappa, Carl, and Kenny who all punked out to "Rock Lobster." Janine Coutu and Brian Brebner sang a duet to "Longer." Awesome drummer, Mike Gianelli impressed everyone in "Born to be Wild."

The Carnival Ball concluded with the Spartan Chorale's torrid rendition of Natalie Cole's La Costa. The Concert Band then struck up a recessional march and the royal court left the auditorium, leaving the stage empty and unlit. Later, after the makeup had been washed off, the costumes carefully put away, and the set torn down and discarded, Winter Wonderland became a beautiful and shimmering memory for all involved, like an intricate white snowflake that melted during a winter thaw.

THE MUSIC MAN

This page clockwise from top: On the train to River City, the traveling salesmen (Ralph DiFronzo, Tom Doyle, David Marrano, David Slocum, Brian Deltergo, Richard Saitz, James Kilroy, and Brian Brebner) agree that "the U-Needa biscuit made a difference;" In his bravado patter, Ralph DeFronzo announces that, "professor Harold Hill's on hand!"; The Paroo's — prominent River Citizens (Debby Ledwith, Kelli Young, and David Reynolds); Directors Bob Harlow and Frank Abrahams; The young River City girls who fall under Professor Hill's spell are, from left to right, Ann Kilroy, Kathy Ward, Jeanne Hartnett, Kelly Kiddy, Carolyn Muller, and Lori Bernat; Next page, clockwise from top: The cast of "The Music Man," looking 'Iowa Stubbish,' assembled in full; Charlie Cowell's 'hard sell' doesn't seem to net a buyer, as prim Marian Paroo (Kelli Young) rejects that wiley salesman (Brian Brebner) and his lascivious proposal; The fruits of forbidden love finally flower, proving for Jeanne Hartnett and John Ledwith that forbearance leads to fulfillment in River City; Professor Hill and Marian the librarian find pre-marital bliss also . . . but not for long!; The first family of River City — Mayor Ed Coutu, his wife Suzan Zizza, and their lovely daughters, Jeanne Hartnett and Heidi Simpson; Marian Paroo tells her protege, (Kathy Ward) "Don't dawdle, Amaryllis."; An assemblage of River City's 'chic' social elite, and the "pick-a-little ladies" includes (from left to right) Jean Rump, Debby Ledwith, Susan Zizza, Christine Chase, Donna Doherty, Robin Compton, Jennifer Smith, Janine Coutu, and Kelli Young.

On Saturday, February 28, Stoneham High performed the play "Jocko" at the regional drama festival in Peabody. "Jocko" is a play about a play written by an egocentric Playwright. Attending the premiere of his play are four typical members of the audience: the supercilious Critic, the didactic Patron of the Arts, the weeping Incurable Romantic, and the unrefined Inveterate Ticket-Buyer. These playgoers take turns criticizing the Playwright about his play about a exiled European, Don Delgado, who falls in love with a monkey, Jocko, in a jungle in Brazil. Don Delgado's mother, sister, and aunt try in vain to convince him to leave Jocko. The Great Ape manages to convince Jocko that Don Delgado will leave her, and she vows revenge. When the audience refuses to accept this ending, however, the Playwright changes his story, so that in order to keep the love of Don Delgado, Jocko enters the perilous pit to retrieve jewels for him. Unfortunately for Jocko, the pit is full of Denizens who beat on the poor monkey until they finally do her in, leaving Don Delgado free to marry a fine European lady with a whalebone comb in her hair. But again, the playgoers demand a new ending, and the Playwright has to come up with two more before they are satisfied.

Robin Compton, as the Patron of the Arts, received an acting award, and Ann Kilroy accepted an award for costume design and makeup. Mr. Mucica is looking forward to next year's festival; he predicts that "Jocko" will return — with a new ending!

PRIDE IN THE FACE OF ADVERSITY

The Stoneham High Soccer team was projected to be one of the best. Their record, however, is not a just indicator of the time and practice spent to reach perfection. "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game." If one ranks the soccer squad on how they played their games, the team would be at the top. They struggled with an abundance of obstacles: injuries, upsets, and an expected reputation which can put a great deal of pressure on a team. They managed to win some of the time and always exhibited team spirit and sportsmanship.

WHETHER WE WIN,
LOSE OR TIE

Our 1980 cheerleading squad must have been the best ever. These girls devoted their entire social life to cheering. They gave up numerous social functions to stay at home and make signs, posters, and decorations for various sport banquets and rallies.

Cheering is more than clapping, stamping, and singing; it is an obligation to make the best attempt possible to keep up the morale and spirits of an entire school.

Through mountainous adversity, our cheerleaders trudged to each game, pushing things aside and keeping an always welcome smile on their faces.

Unfortunately, cheerleaders are usually overlooked. They are just shrugged off as the pretty girls on the side line. But cheering is a major contributing factor in any sports program. Without them, who would boost morale? Thank you, cheerleaders, for your self-less devotion.

MAJORETTES

Co-Captains Mary Cashell and Pam Carlson led the 1980 Majorette Squad through an extremely busy season. The squad, consisting of twelve girls, participated not only in the traditional half time performances at football games, but in two competitions with the SHS Marching Band and in four parades. Although the squad will remember the long, hard practices, they will also remember the smiles, the laughter, the silver and blue glitter, and the glow of fire on Thanksgiving Day. High hopes and togetherness are wished for Miss Broderick and the squads to follow.

IT CERTAINLY TOOK PRIDE

You ask, what is pride? Pride is that feeling of reasonable and justified self-respect. It was this self-respect which drove our 1980-81 squad. The record can not possibly illustrate the hours, days and weeks of hard grueling practice our Spartans trudged through.

From week to week the mighty Spartans gave their all on the practice field. Their reward was one of unknown fame, respect, and honor. This squad will always be remembered as the men who had what it took to be a Stoneham Spartan — they sacrificed individuality for their team.

Not only did this team gain knowledge of the challenging game of football, but they also learned a valuable lesson of life — when things don't go well for you, you are the only one who can turn things around and make life what you wish.

BUMP SET SPIKE!!!

VOLLEYBALL

The 1980 volleyball season closed with the Varsity team achieving an eight win — eight loss overall record. The team served and spiked their way to second place in the North Shore Volleyball League with a record of seven wins and three losses.

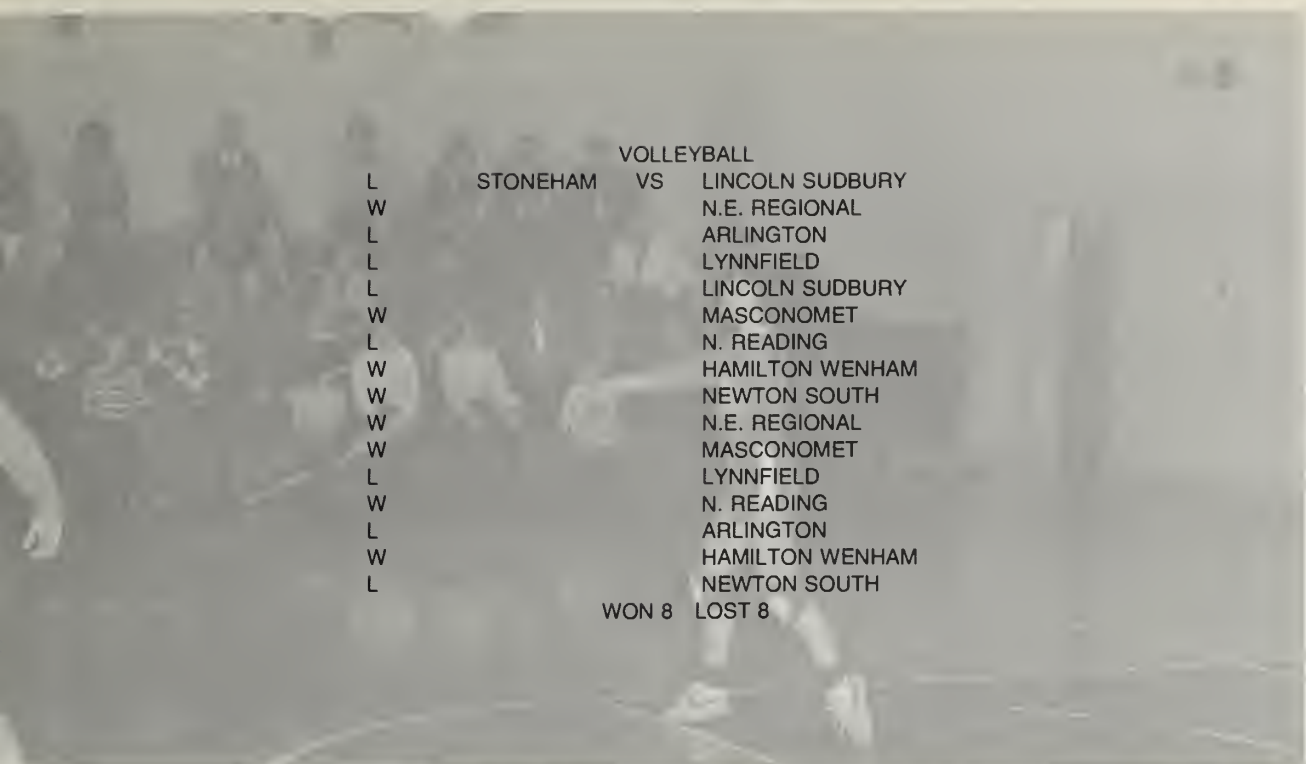

The varsity squad consisted of two juniors and eight seniors. Underclassmen Patty Bryant and Christine Capone both played well as middle hitters and they were valuable defensive players.

Captain Tracey McHugh was a power hitter whose serves were consistently powerful and accurate. Pam DeCola played both offensive and defensive positions with skill, strength and intensity. Tracey and Pam, as well as Lianne Drago and Christine Pallotta, were selected for the North Shore's All-Star League.

Other seniors included power-hitters Donna Doherty, Maureen Russell, Carole Lombard and Lorraine Marshall.

The senior players graduating with the class of 1981 would like to say "W.T.A." to the next varsity team and they would like to wish future players luck in their senior year.

FORE!

The golf team once again handed in the best record. Golf does not take a great deal of physical strength but it requires a certain type of skill and patience. Our golf squad exhibited this throughout their season.

AN IMPORTANT ASPECT OF RUNNING.

Even though the record of the Stoneham High Cross Country runners indicates a losing season, it is actually misleading. The team found that the 1980 season was a time for great personal improvement. Led by captain John Spencer, they challenged every team in the tough Middlesex league, and with every challenge, team members lowered their times and raised their thresholds of pain. Coaches Wayne Fillback and Nels Nelson pushed the Stoneham runners so that they would attain their best, offering such encouragement as "pain is gain," and "if you're not in pain, you're not living!" The Stoneham seniors, John Spencer, Efrain Gonzalez, Robin DeFlumeri, Diane Whelan, and Christina Covino, followed their coaches advice and ran personal best times. The juniors, Dan Fitzgerald, Bob Mallan, Steve Boyle, Chip Carroll, and Mike Vaccarro, and the sophomore Mike B Jessop, also overcame their fears of pain and achieved personal triumph. Despite individual gains, however, the team suffered a winless season, maybe because it was the smallest team in the league. Next year, though, those underclassmen will be back to challenge the Middlesex league as our team did in 1980.

WON 7 LOST 8 TIED 3

Stoneham High's 1980 Field Hockey season closed with the Varsity Squad's respectable record of seven wins, eight losses, and three ties. The record alone, however, is not an accurate indication of the team's skill and sportsmanship, which, in addition to the physical intensity and aggressiveness exhibited by many of the players, saw the Spartans through many tense and harrowing matches.

The five Senior players, who showed, in the words of Coach Carbone, "the consistent leadership and talent necessary to carry the team," included Tri-Captains Reenie Noone, Cheryl Titcomb, and Michelle Figucia. Superior defensive prowess was exhibited by half-backs Carol Clabby and Karen Uva.

Also playing on the varsity squad were underclassmen Denise Tower, Susan Powers, Heidi Simpson, Jackie Jutras, Nadine Reinold, Marcia McLaughlin, Colleen Morrissey, Sharon Reilly, and Elizabeth Woods. If the skill shown by these girls during the past season is any indication, the 1981's Varsity Squad will have the talent as well as the experience needed to become a top contender in the Middlesex League.

THIRD PLACE FINISH!

The 1980-81 Season was a heart breaker for the Spartans. Their playoff hopes were smashed in their final game against Woburn, when the puck squeezed by with 15 seconds left, leaving in its wake a final scorer of 4-3, and a team of dejected players. The Spartans were plagued with injuries all year, and didn't start playing to their potential until the end of the season. The team put forth a galant effort but came up short as the season drew to a close.

Players for the team include the awesome Rappa Romboli, and the heart of the team Tony Maffeo. The two star centers Richie Santoro and Scott Boretti, the tough wing Bill Connell, Chessie Ramano, Dave Fabbri, Glenn Minghella, the hustlers, and mad dog Dave Griffith. Greg Miasserian held the defense together with Bobby Wiczorek, who is one of the top defensemen around, Speedy Bobby Macalister and Chubby Duplin. Tending the nets we had Teddy Kerrigan, Chico Maffeo and Joe Tarantino.

Thanks for the Memories, Captain Duffa.

BASKETBALL

EFFORT — putting forth an exertion of strenght or power, bodily or mental; attempt; achievement.

Effort is what makes a real competitor, and competitors are what our basketball squad was made of. Throughout its High School career the squad battled against its reputation. Year after year these competitors gave of themselves to make an attempt.

Whether the team won or lost, they always exhibited team work. They played to the best of their abilities and that is all one can ask for; the best.

FIGHT TEAMS FIGHT!!!

This year's winter cheerleading squad was energetic, enthusiastic, and supportive of all the Spartan teams. They devoted much of their time to decorating the gym and the lockerrooms before games. For the first time, the cheerleaders' squad was broken into two eight number teams. Together, forming a sixteen girl squad. They worked hard to raise the school spirit and cheer the basketball and hockey teams onto victory. Led by co-captains Lianne Drago and Renata Ounjian, the cheerleaders made a great contribution to the successes of the winter season.

HEY LOOK! MY SHOULDER FINALLY WORKS!

THAT'S THE WAY THE BALL BOUNCES.

Won 2 Lost 16 Tied 0

The 1981 girls basketball team, led by Captain Christine Pallotta and seniors Carole Clabby, Michelle Figucia, Tracey McHugh, and Karen Uva, ended up with a record that was not representative of their hard work and dedication. The seniors were helped out by juniors Diana Covino, Anne Gillespie, Susan Powers, Laurie Rizzo and Nadine Rienold, and sophomores Christine Simpson and Liz Wood. Unfortunately, Reenie Noone was forced to sit out the season with a shoulder injury.

SHIVERING IN OUR SHORTS!

For what will most likely be the last year, the winter track team suffered another disappointing season. Hindered by both small numbers and bad weather, the co-ed team finished with a winless record. Unfortunately, their record is no indication of the time and effort that the team dedicated to running. In particular, the girls on the team, Robin DeFlumeri, Genevieve Kellogg, Jeanne Scannell, Diane Whelan, Karen Muse, and Christina Covino, worked hard in practice and ran against boys in the meets. Although none of the girls earned any points, Genie Kellogg regularly beat out the boys in JV races.

The Stoneham boys made a valiant effort against every team they competed with, although they were greatly outnumbered. Still, they continued to strive to win, and if they didn't win points, at least they won a sense of personal satisfaction.

Third row — Laura Nelson, Cheryl Bova, Maureen Sutherland, Lucille Scimone, Jack Fionda, Pam DeCola, Lisa Doyle, Robin Brown, Linda Galante, Marianne DeBole, Susan Orsillo, Advisors — Miss DiMascio, Mr. Anastasi, Laurie Allen.

The main purpose of the Italian Club is to introduce its members to the culture and traditions of Italy. Among the various activities planned for the year are a field trip to the North End including lunch at a local restaurant, a Christmas party where a variety of Italian delicacies will be served, a slide presentation showing some interesting sites in Italy, and perhaps even a trip to New York and a Little Italy! The members, who don't need to be either Italian or enrolled in an Italian class, have already completed one commendable activity; a collection to help the victims of the 1980 earthquake in Italy.

FRENCH CLUB

The Spanish Club is a fun and interesting way of learning about the Spanish people and their customs. Members have enjoyed an authentic Mexican meal at "La Casa Mexico" in Boston, and they are working on the preparation of tacos, burritos and enchiladas for a fiesta with the Italian Club. Also, a pinata is in the making for Christmas. Aside from their culinary endeavors, the Spanish Club plans to see films and take several local trips, all to better understand a foreign culture. Advisor Janie Gerrior says "Hasta la vista!" to the class of 1981.

SEEDS

PUBLIC SPEAKING

This minor subject, which deals with developing effective speech, is becoming more popular every year.

The class deals in several areas of speech, such as drama, poetry, and organized debate.

Individual speech is stressed and the student has a chance to develop confidence, dictation, projection, and an overall talent for speaking before an audience.

IN PERFECT HARMONY

COLLEGIUM MUSICUM

Collegium Musicum is a comprehensive chamber music experience for singers and instrumentalists, with emphasis on the stylistic characteristics and performance practices of music of all periods. Field trips and guest artists enrich the program.

Members have the opportunity to learn to play early instruments when they are available.

Admission to the course is by audition and permission of the instructor or program supervisor only.

REPERTORY CHORUS

Designed for those who wish to begin or continue a choral experience (no previous singing experience is necessary),

Repertory Chorus is especially recommended for freshmen and sophomores interested in singing and for juniors and seniors who wish to sing in a chorus but cannot elect chorus major. Music reading and vocal skills are developed through rehearsal and public performance of a wide variety of music including pop and pop rock.

The Community Service group consists of a dedicated group of students whose purpose is to serve those people in the community in any field of human service including counseling centers, hospitals, day care centers, and nursing homes. The Toy Drive at Christmas is also one of the group's projects. Many of these students plan to have careers in the field of Human Services.

HARVARD MODEL U.N.

Harvard Model United Nations is in its fourth year at Stoneham High School. The participating students act as delegates from a chosen country, each representing the country in specific United Nations' committees. The delegation from Stoneham High has expanded the school's program to include annual participation in the National High School Model United Nations in New York City. The students hope to continue to further the program in Stoneham High.

By the second semester of their senior year students who rank academically with the top ten percent of their class are potential candidates for the membership in the Stoneham Chapter of the National Honor Society.

The student's character, service to the school and community, and leadership potential comprise equal weight in the selection process. The entire high school staff reviews the list of all potential inductees.

The main purpose of the Science Club is to introduce the students to various science fields through field trips, and to a multitude of science careers through guest lecturers and speakers. The club emphasizes student involvement to arrange activities and to choose fields and subjects which are of interest to them.

THE HAUNTING OF HILL HOUSE

Congratulations are extended to all who participated in the production of "The Haunting of Hill House." On November 20, 21, and 22 packed audiences reveled over this marvelously produced play.

Mr. Paul Mucica, the superbly talented director, took full charge of the coordination of this phenomenal horror story. Working with them was an array of immensely gifted actors and actresses.

The play began when Eleanor Vance (brilliantly played by Janine Coutu) was led into the living room by Mrs. Dudley (portrayed by Robin Lee Compton). Next to arrive was the bewitching Theodora, played by Alayne Carey, and finally the host Dr. Montague, magnificently characterized by Ralph Di-Fronzo. It seemed that all these people were brought together because of their special psychic powers and abilities. Dr. Montague wanted them to break the spell of the house.

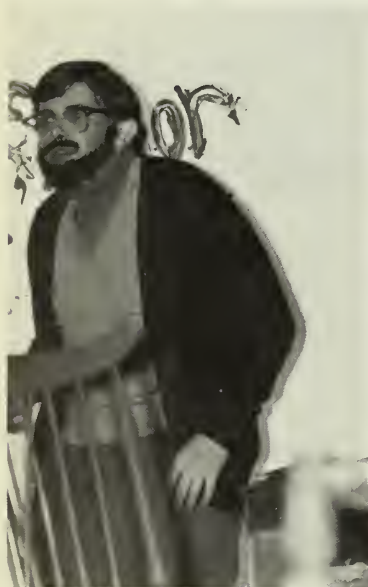

The play had many fine moments, including terrific performances by Patrick Ward, Susan Zizza, and Edward Coutu.

Special thanks are extended to the stage crew and to Ms.

Patricia Harrigan for set design. The play was delightfully done, and anyone who missed it missed out on a terrific production — a play with a touch of humor and mood of terror artfully combined. Many long hours of rehearsal and stage production went in to make the play the success that it was.

Once again, Congratulations!

Kathy Crosdale, Maddalena Ciamarra, Beth Cataldo and Pam Carlson in formal jubilation.

On February 12, 1981, forty Stoneham students were inducted into the National Honor Society. The main theme for the program was academic excellence. Indeed, the purpose of this organization was to promote the quest for academic excellence, as Mr. William Hoyt said in his speech. Reverend Paul Moriarty gave the invocation, praising those forty students who had worked hard enough to deserve this honor, and as he expected, to pass on their experience to lead others. Mrs. Joan L'Heureux addressed the students and advised them to maintain a passion for learning, and to pursue their goals with discipline and independence. Representatives Robinson and Saltmarsh, as well as Mr. James Kellogg, chairman of the school committee, and Mr. Michael Rolli, chairman of the Board of Selectman, expressed their greetings and congratulations to all gathered for the program.

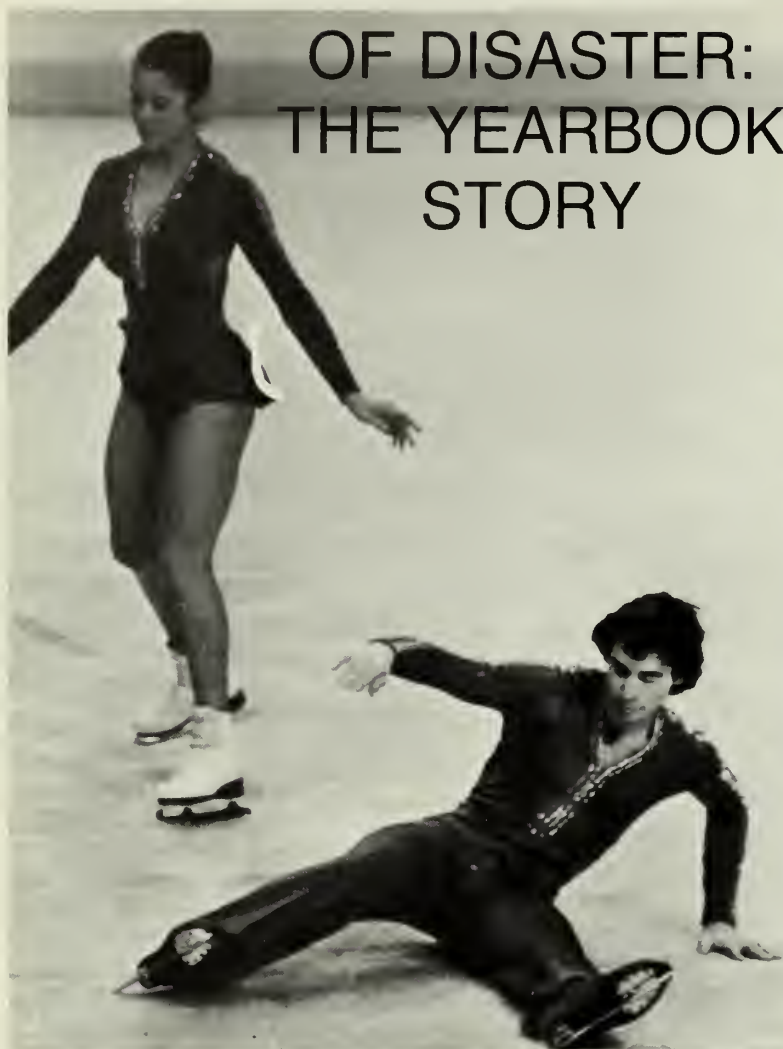

In the last part of the program, the forty students were inducted as full members of the National Honor Society. Miss Vera Komanowski, Mr. William Hoyt, and Mr. Matarese awarded certificates and pins to the new members. Christina Covino, president of the Stoneham High School chapter of the National Honor Society, presented the deserving Mr. James Romano with an honorary membership. Afterwards, the new members celebrated with their friends and families by taking a short leave from their studies with doughnuts, and coffee or milk.

Nineteen Eighty One was a year of beginnings as well as a year of endings, both inside of Stoneham High School and far beyond its walls. The year of our commencement saw profound changes in American politics and values. The political defeats of Kennedy and Carter and the subsequent rise to power of Ronald Reagan and the Republican Party marked the decline of liberalism as the prevalent force in American politics. The murder of John Lennon, who had been the voice of liberal protest and discontent during the sixties and early seventies, seemed to emphasize liberalism's demise and point to a new era of conservatism.

The glitter and garishness of disco was washed away in a new wave of bizarre and primitive punk rock music. Saturday Night Live, which had become a television favorite of high school students in previous years for its scathing and hilarious satire of American fads and politics, fell from favor as audiences all over America experienced lust, crime and passion vicariously through episodes of Dallas and General Hospital.

Nineteen Eighty-One was a year of endings both in our own lives and in society. Each ending, each demise, however, signifies a beginning, a renaissance. Omega, the last letter of the Greek alphabet, can only be followed by Alpha, the first. Time is a cycle of death and rebirth, of continuous endings and beginnings. As we leave Stoneham High School, we are on the threshold of a new era in both our personal lives and in American values and ideals.

Time it was,
and what a time it was it was a time of innocence,
a time of confidences,
Long ago it must be —
I have a photograph . . .
Preserve your memories.
They're all that's left you.
